SUMMARIES OF

FEDERAL MILK MARKETING ORDERS

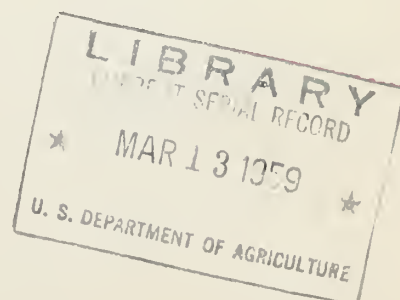

Revised through December 1, 1958

Attached are summaries of Federal Milk Marketing Orders which became effective during the period September 2, 1958, through December 1, 1958. Included are revised summaries of orders which were amended during this same period. Please note the slight change in the format and page numbering of the new and revised summaries. The attached index and introduction have also been revised to conform to the summary revisions.

In order to effect a gradual revision of the entire summary compilation, summaries of new orders and revised summaries of orders amended after December 1, 1958, will conform to the new format.

Agriculture - Washington

INDEX

(As summaries of new and amended orders are prepared, page numbers will be preceded by the order number. For example, Michigan Upper Peninsula is Order number 111; there are four pages in this summary. Thus, the page numbers are 111-1; 111-2; 111-3; 111-4. The following index reflects this system of page numbering and also shows all page numbers in the summaries which have not been revised. Using Boston as an example, the page numbers are listed in the index as pages 4 through 9a and 10 through 10c thus, the entire summary of this order occupies pages 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 9a, 10, 10a, 10b, and 10c. The pages of the introduction and Federal Register citations are numbered consecutively with the abbreviations "Int." or "Cit." preceding the number.)

INTRODUCTION

Int.-1

Summaries of Federal Milk Marketing Orders have been prepared to provide ready up-to-date reference to major provisions of the various orders. These summaries are not intended to give complete and detailed information regarding the orders. When complete information is required, the order itself should be consulted.

Copies of an order regulating the handling of milk in a particular market may be obtained from the Market Administrator of the order. Also, all orders and amendments thereto are published in the Federal Register. Included with these summaries is a section containing the citations of the volume, page number, and date of publication in the Federal Register of the latest complete order and of any amendments thereto. Copies of the Federal Register are available in many public libraries, or they may be obtained by subscription for $15.00 per year from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The headings used in the summaries and some explanatory comments relative to the material covered are listed below. Some of the headings on these summaries are different from those on summaries prepared prior to September 1, 1958. In such cases, the headings used on earlier summaries are also shown.

1. Marketing Area. The marketing area is the territory in which the handling of milk is regulated by the Federal Order. The order definition usually includes the counties and the principal cities and towns. The marketing area is the distribution area in which milk is sold to consumers and does not correspond to the area where milk is produced.
2. Handler. Milk handlers are the persons regulated by an order. Some handlers are subject to all of the provisions of an order, while others who do only a small part of their business in the marketing area may be only partially regulated. Under many orders a cooperative association of producers is considered a handler with respect to milk marketed for its members.
3. Producer-Handler. A producer-handler is a person who distributes milk of his own production in the marketing area, and generally receives no milk from other producers. Such handlers are usually exempt from certain provision of the orders, but reports may be required by the market administrators.
4. Producer. The producer definition identifies dairy farmers whose milk is received by regulated handlers and who must be paid in accordance with the terms of the order.

5. Regulated Plant. This definition sets forth the conditions under which handlers become fully regulated and obligated to pay minimum prices to producers under the terms of the order. Regulated plants are referred to in some orders as approved plants; in others, as pool plants or fluid milk plants. For purposes of uniformity, "Regulated Plant" is used as a heading in the summaries, with the applicable order definition (approved plant, fluid milk plant, pool plant) shown in parenthesis.
6. Method of Accounting for Milk. The quantity of milk in each class may be measured in terms of the separate components of skim milk and butterfat contained in items assigned to each class, in terms of the combined volume of skim milk and butterfat in the product, or in terms of the whole milk equivalent of the butterfat in the product.
7. Classification. Milk is classified according to its use. Milk utilized in products such as whole milk, skim milk, sweet and sour cream, buttermilk, plain and flavored milk and milk drinks, and mixtures of cream and milk or skim milk, is usually Class I, and in most orders, milk used for manufacturing is Class II. Some orders provide for additional classes or sub-classes.
8. Transfers Between Regulated Plants. (Referred to as "Interhandler Transfers" prior to September 1, 1958) Under this heading is described the procedure for assigning to classes at each plant any milk or milk product disposed of by one regulated plant to another regulated plant.
9. Transfers to Unregulated Plants. (Referred to as "Outside Sales" prior to September 1, 1958) Under this heading is described the procedure for classifying milk or milk products disposed of from a regulated plant to an unregulated plant.
10. Receipts from Unregulated Plants. (Referred to as "Outside Purchases" prior to September 1, 1958) Under this heading is described the procedure for assigning to classes milk or milk products received by handlers from sources other than producers, producer-handlers, or regulated plants. Some of the orders contain provisions which require handlers to make compensatory payments to the producer settlement fund on milk purchased from unregulated sources and assigned to Class I. Where such payments are required, they are described under this paragraph.
11. Class Prices. The orders provide methods for computing each month minimum class prices to be paid to producers by handlers for milk of basic butterfat test disposed of in each class. The basic butterfat test at which milk is priced is indicated in parenthesis immediately following this heading. Class I price formulas are of two general types. Under the most common type the price of Class I milk is determined by adding a specified amount per hundredweight to a "basic formula price". The basic formula price represents the average of prices paid at specified manufacturing plants, or an estimate of the value of milk when it is used in manufactured dairy products. The other type formula relates the price of Class I milk to general economic factors or to those economic factors which are particularly influential in determining the value of milk in a local area.

Many of the formulas for pricing Class I milk contain supply-demand adjusters. These adjusters automatically raise the formula price when supplies are short relative to Class I sales and lower the price when supplies are excessive. The short or excessive supply level is measured by a comparison of the relationship between producer receipts and Class I sales in certain preceding delivery periods with a specified relationship determined to be normal or necessary.

The average prices paid at specified milk manufacturing plants and/or formula prices related to wholesale prices of non-fat dry milk are used to compute the prices for classes other than Class I. Formulas based on product prices contain factors which convert such prices to an estimate of the value of 100 pounds of milk used in manufactured dairy products. Abbreviated descriptions, as follow, are used in describing the various market prices used in the formulas in various orders:

Chicago 92-score butter - A simple monthly average of the daily price per pound of butter, wholesale, for the grade and market indicated, as reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Chicago 93 (92) score butter - This designation is used if the highest price for Chicago 92-score butter is substituted when no price for 93-score butter is reported.

Wisc. Cheese Exchange Cheddar - A simple monthly average of the weekly price per pound of Cheddar cheese on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange, as calculated by the Dairy Division, AMS.

Wisconsin Primary Market Cheddar - A simple monthly average of the daily (Monday-Thursday) price per pound for Wisconsin State Brand Cheddar cheese (carlot or truck-load, f.o.b. Wisconsin assembly point).

Chicago spray (roller) powder - A simple monthly average of daily prices per pound of non-fat dry milk solids for human consumption, wholesale carlots at Chicago, spray or roller process, or a simple average of average spray and roller process prices.

Chicago area spray (roller) powder - A simple monthly average of daily prices per pound of non-fat dry milk solids for human consumption, wholesale, carlots f.o.b. plant, Chicago area, spray or roller process, or a simple average of average spray and roller process prices.

New York roller-powder-P.P.C. - Monthly average price per pound for roller process nonfat dry milk solids - "other brands", human consumption, in carlots, bags, or barrels, as published in the "Producers Price Current."

12. Butterfat Differentials: The butterfat differentials apply to each one-tenth of one percent variation of butterfat content from the basic test specified in the order. Differentials applicable to each class price and the producers differential applicable to the blend price are shown.
13. Location Differentials: The pricing plan of a number of Federal order markets provides for location differentials as adjustments to the class and uniform prices. Specified deductions from or additions to the prices are made according to the plant location or the distance of the plant from a stated point in the marketing area.
14. Type of Pool: Under this heading is a statement on the type of pool and whether or not there is a base payment or Louisville payment plan. Under a market-wide pool, the total money value of all milk delivered by all producers (pounds of milk in each class multiplied by the minimum class prices and usually adjusted to a uniform basing point and butterfat test) is divided by the total amount of producer milk to be priced. This uniform or blended price per hundredweight is paid to all producers. With an individual handler pool, similar computations are made for each handler. All producers supplying a particular handler are paid the same uniform price, but this price may differ among handlers, depending upon their utilization of milk.

In markets having a base payment plan, producers establish a base production during specified months, usually months of normally low production rates. This base is used during the months of high milk production to establish the quantity of milk for which the producer receives the higher base price. A lower price is paid for excess production during these months. Where the Louisville plan is used, specified deductions per hundredweight of milk are made on all milk delivered during flush production months and funds collected are added to payments made on milk delivered in the months when production is normally low.

15. Expense of Administration: The maximum rates of assessment which handlers are required to pay to cover the costs of administering the orders are shown under this heading. Lower rates are used when costs do not require the maximum rates. The milk on which handlers must pay an assessment is also described under this heading.
16. Special Producer Provisions: Provisions relating to charges for marketing services for producers are given under this heading. Such services include furnishing market information and verifying individual weights and butterfat content of milk delivered by producers. When such services are performed by qualified cooperative associations, handlers pay authorized amounts to the associations. If the services are performed by the market administrator for producers who do not belong to such associations, specified charges are paid to the administrator.
17. Special Handler Provisions (Unregulated Plants): Under this heading is described the extent of regulation of handlers with limited Class I sales in the marketing area and handlers subject to another Federal order. Such handlers are not required to pay minimum order prices to producers, but may be required to make compensatory payments to the producer settlement fund.
